

ROB FRANKFORT STATE BANK

Bandits Take $3500 Loot
Force Cashier To Go With Them, Releasing Him Later

Shortly after Wm. Lankenau and John Lühring, president and cashier respectively of the Frankfort State Bank returned to the bank from dinner about 1:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, two armed bandits walked in and covered Mr. Lühring with revolvers and ordered him to "stick up your hands". Mr. Lankenau had just stepped in a rear room and had heard the robbers command, but at first thought someone had said this in a joke to the cashier. Mr. Lühring, who was in the cashier's cage, was asked to sit on a chair and place his hands on his knees. One of the bandits stood guard as the other one scooped up the loose currency, paper money and some liberty bonds. While the holdup was in progress, Walter Smith, a young Frankfort man walked by the bank and glanced in, but did not know a holdup was going on. He went into the office of Dr. W. V. Hedges adjoining the bank. The bandit on guard observed this and fearing an alarm was being given, urged his companion to hurry and turning to Mr. Lühring ordered him to put on his hat and coat and go with them. They marched him to the car, one bandit before and one back of him. Mr. Lühring was warned not to look at the car. The bandits drove north to route 51. While driving they inquired of Mr. Lühring if there was any silver in the vault and Mr. Lühring said there was about $1,000 in the vault which was not touched. One of the bandits told Mr. Lühring that they had been ordered to pull the job and had been instructed by their superior master minds not to kill or injure any one. Just before reaching the four corners north of Frankfort the bandits let Mr. Lühring out and then headed north on route 51.

Mr. Lühring hailed a passing car and rode back to the bank. In the meantime Mr. Lankenau came out of the back room and saw the car turning the Fred Warning corner and heading north. He saw that the money was gone and Mr. Lühring was missing and he immediately gave the alarm and notified the Will County sheriff's office at Joliet and the Bankers Association in Chicago.

No trace was found of the bandits. They were described as being between 31 and 40 years old and wore no masks. It is thought they are the same gang that robbed the Mokena bank last January at which time they took the cashier with them and let him out a mile away. The bandits warned Mr. Lühring that if he ever identified them they would kill him. A Chrysler 77 was seen in Frankfort Wednesday afternoon and it is thought this was the bandits car. Mr. Lühring was none the worse for his exciting time and was not hurt.

The theft is covered by insurance. A mysterious car appeared at the Cooper & Hostert garage in Mokena Tuesday night. When Mr. Hostert went out to see what was wanted, the car quickly drove away.

It is thought this may have been the bandit car, the robbers probably getting a lay of the land and territory. The car had wire wheels but aside from that Mr. Hostert did not get a description of the car.

Regular Ticket
Wins at Frankfort

Great interest was taken in the village election at Frankfort on Tuesday when 350 votes were cast. With two full tickets in the field interest was at white heat. The present incumbents for the office of village clerk and village trustees were re-elected with very substantial majorities. The returns are as follows:

Village Party ticket: for village clerk, Walter Pfaff, 240; for village trustees, Chas. Pfaff, 234; Walter Baumgartner, 211; John Topp, 254.

Peoples' Ticket: For village clerk, Wm. Wishover; for village trustees, Wm. Koerner 102; Wm. Minger, 122; Wesley Hollstein, 90. The officers re-elected are: for village clerk, Walter Pfaff.

For village trustees: Chas. Pfaff, Walter Baumgartner and John Topp.

Exhaust Pipe Is
Cause of Blaze

Tuesday evening a work car on a siding near the Cappel elevator in Mokena caught fire supposedly from the exhaust pipe of a gas engine, the pipe running thru the floor of the car. Grease under the floor became ignited. A few shots from a chemical tank put the blaze out. There was no damage.

Orland High School Play Apr. 25

The students of the Orland Park High School will present the "College Hobo" at the school auditorium on the evening of April 25th at 8 p. m. For some time the class has been working on this play and preparing suitable music to go with it.

The play will open with a quaint little southern scene of country life at the farm home of Mr. Sims, a rich planter. Here we find Sally Sims, an attractive country maid in the home of her honest, eccentric old father. In this humble home among the hills, Marvin Marshall, a ministerial student of Blake University is pastor of the little church.

As the curtain rises, Marvin and Sally are rehearsing a very dramatic scene of a play that is to be given for the benefit of their little church. Sally is treasurer of the church and her cousin and admirer, Johnnie Johnson is secretary. On the eve of the play they have a mysterious visitor who calls himself "Hobo". It is learned that he is a student of Blake University where he is president of the Hobo Club. He has a questionable reputation, due to the fact that he does many indiscreet things for a thrill.

He is at this time "Hoboing" it back to school and stops at the Sim's home for shelter for the night. Sally has always had an unconquerable desire to attend college, but could never convince her father that it was necessary. He argues that "she ain't paid for her raisin' yet". Marshall explains. A parents duty to a child, and in turn a child's duty to her parents. Space prohibits a complete review of the play, but suffice it to say you will be entertained with an extraordinary arrangement of dramatics, vocal and instrumental music. It is planned to put on an entertainment that will please all ages.

The Faculty of the Orland Park school will sponsor a bunco and 500 party on the evening of May 2nd for the purpose of raising money for the spring festival. Everybody is most cordially invited.

New Lenox School
Needs Addition

The rapid growth of New Lenox is taxing the capacity of the New Lenox public school to such an extent that a new room will have to be added to the new school to take care of the heavy influx of new pupils. The cost of the additional room will most likely have to be met by a bond issue.

The new McIntosh subdivision to the south of New Lenox is being developed and it is estimated that 25 new homes will be built there this summer. New Lenox is growing by leaps and bounds. It is an ideal site for residence purposes and will soon be a thriving suburb of Joliet.

Russel McCleary
Elected Director

A very spirited school election was held at New Lenox Saturday afternoon. The candidates for school director were Russel McCleary and Frank Roblin. McCleary was elected receiving 100 votes. Mr. Roblin received 66 votes.

New Lenox Man
Seeks Change In Primary Law

That the present primary is very unsatisfactory in many respects and that under the present system no man of moderate means can run for public office due to the great expense involved in making a campaign, was the gist of a resolution which W. A. Drake, committeeman from New Lenox asked the convention of the Will County Republican Central Committee to adopt at the session in Joliet last Monday morning. The resolution asked the state legislature to repeal the present primary law.

In his resolution Mr. Drake set forth that it was necessary for large campaign expenditures to be made to obtain the nomination in primary election, and that candidates in the primary were subject to "indecent and outrageous assaults upon character. His resolution said the present primary law made it impossible for any but rich men to seek public office.

His resolution was referred to a committee consisting of himself, Mr. Patterson and Mr. Erickson to change the phraseology. A motion was made that the resolution be placed on file for consideration at the next meeting of the committee.

Mr. Drake has hit the nail on the head when he says only rich men are able to run for public office and this condition is what breeds crooked politicians and corrupt officers. The law should be amended so as to give the man of moderate means a break.

Orland Park Elects
First Woman To a
Village Office

The village election of last Tuesday, while not a surprise, resulted in the election of the first woman to hold a village office in the history of Orland Park.

The entire election, with one exception, resulted in a victory for the Reform or woman's slate. Mrs. H. Adele Cooper, was elected village clerk by a vote of 135 to 90 over Jas. H. Cannon. Two members of her ticket were elected as trustees, Thomas Wheeler polling 112 votes and Leonard C. Kay, polling 110 votes. Louis H. Nicolai, the only member of the opposing ticket to break into the winners column, thru his personal popularity, came thru with 95 votes to beat out Miss Hattie Austin for the third trustees' job.

Harry Heiting, running as an independent polled a total of 109 votes, and without the advantage of having his name printed on the ballot and had not some very clever last minute politics been pulled, he would have taken third place. However, in view of the fact that the law reads that a candidate whose name must be written in must also have a cross placed in the square in front of his name to make it a legal ballot, it was necessary to throw out, as improperly voted (under the law), twenty ballots which had been clearly intended for Mr. Heiting. It appears, after the smoke of the battle has cleared away, that it was anticipated that Mr. Heiting thru his clean cut personality, and his host of friends and wellwishers, would even surmount the difficulty of having his friends write his name in on the ballot to secure his election and thus break the regular slates, that the ballot which had originally been printed and sample copies of the same circulated, was at the last moment changed, and new ballots printed, listing both regular tickets but in the column provided for voting for independent candidates, simply presenting a space not marked with the square, in which it is necessary for the voter, in order to legally vote for a candidate, to place a cross. This omission, while not mandatory upon those responsible for the printing and distribution of the ballots, savored very much of "clever politics" and cost Mr. Heiting an earned election, as 20 voters, not conversant with the technicalities of the law, simply put a cross in front of his name without making the necessary square for it and thus voided their own ballots.

However, Mr. Heiting is, besides being a public spirited man, a good fellow and good loser and while he recognizes the fact that a political trick (legal though it was), kept him from election, he pledges his support to the successful candidates. On the whole, however, Orland Park is to be congratulated on her choice of public officers selected at this election. Mrs. Cooper has demonstrated her abilities as a member of the School Board and as president of the P. T. A., and should, by training, by education and by adaptability, make an excellent village clerk. Thomas Wheeler has served as school trustee with an excellent record and Leonard Kay is so universally known as a man of sound judgment and unimpeachable integrity that there is no question on his choice.

Louis (Butch) Nicolai, the only candidate to break the slate, is young, full of pep, a tireless worker and a good fellow and should make a good trustee. The vote he secured as the only winning member of his ticket, speaks for his personal popularity.

At this time, it is only appropriate to say something in regard to the retiring officials. None of them were candidates for re-election, all having voluntarily stepped off the political stage because of private reasons. Philip Steffen, Jr., retiring village clerk, has served as such for several terms and had he so desired would, without doubt, have continued in this office indefinitely. Ike Cleveland, retiring trustee and former Chief of Police, has felt that because of his recent election as Republican committeeman for Orland Park, that he could not do justice to both positions. He leaves his position more popular than when first elected and with a record of constructive administration behind him. Charles Hahenlein, for years a booster for Orland Park, and an ever faithful public servant, has felt that he has done his duty and in the opinion of the writer, has done it well. Fred Uthe, elected to fill out the unexpired term of George Yunker, (resigned) has only served a year, but has demonstrated that as a trustee he was a dependable and conscientious public servant and it is to be regretted that he did not elect to continue in such service.

The newly elected board of trustees should be according to the interpretation of the voters, an ideal combination for progress and prosperity.

To Meet Saturday
Regarding Wolf rd
Bridge Right of way

A meeting of the property owners along the bridge sites on Wolf road north and south together with the members of the Will County right of way committee will be held this Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the J. V. Hall stand north of Mokena for the purpose of getting the land owners to sign up for the necessary right of way for the bridges.

In the meantime the County bond issue committee has rejected all the bids received for the construction of the bridges on Wolf Road and will advertise for new bids and let the contract after the needed bridge right of ways have been secured.

Whether the bridges will be built this summer and whether Wolf road will be paved this summer all rests with the property owners along the road. If they readily sign up for the right of ways and co-operate with the county bond issue committee, the projected work can be done this summer, but if there are any delays in securing the right of way no work will be done on Wolf road. It is all up to the property owners along Wolf road to say if the work of paving Wolf road shall proceed without delay or if they want to hold out and delay the project indefinitely.

The Will County bond issue committee is ready to go ahead with their part of the work soon as the right of way question is settled.

Tinley Election A
Lively Affair

Tinley Park had a warmly contested village election Tuesday, the fight centering on village trustees. Those elected were:

Village clerk, Harry A. Mager
Village trustees: Paul H. Rauhoff, Fred Hick and Arthur Schoeneck.
A total of 238 votes were polled and the returns were as follows:

Village clerk, Harry A. Mager, 238 votes; for village trustees: Paul H. Rauhoff, 179; Fred Hick 120; John P. Boeyer, 66; Arthur N. Schoeneck 114; William H. Firchau 41; Phillip Mager 36; Edward J. Mohr 109.

Tinley Legionaire
Elected Director

At the Tinley Park school election held Saturday night a legionaire was elected school director. George Rowden was selected as director, receiving 67 votes. His opponent Chas. Neimann received 32 votes.

Mokena Club Opens
Dance Season 26th

The Mokena Men's Club will open their dancing season in their pavilion quarter mile south of Mokena on Wolf road Saturday night, April 26. Music will be furnished by Johnny Clyde's Hell Kats orchestra. This orchestra has done considerable radio broadcast work and comes highly recommended.

TO ORGANIZE 4H
CLUBS AT TINLEY
AND ORLAND PK.

A movement is on to organize 4H Clubs in Tinley Park and at Orland. M. E. Tascher, assistant Farm Adviser of Cook County has made arrangements to hold organization meetings at the Orland Park school auditorium on the evening of April 21 at 8 p. m., and at the Tinley Park public school on April 22 at 8 p. m. Mr. Tascher reports a fine list of boys ready to enroll at both places.

At these organization meetings G. S. Randall, District Club Leader of Northern Illinois will be present besides Mr. Tascher.

The boys 4H Club work is a nation wide effort to improve farm as well as home life. Boys and girls clubs were organized by various agencies thruout the United States as early as 1900, but it was not until 1914 that it became officially recognized as part of the work of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Any boy between the ages of 10 and 20 years inclusive on July 1st may enroll in 4H clubs.

The most important part of the club work is, of course, each individual members work; namely what is learned and the results with the project. In addition to this the members give public demonstration of approved farm practices in their communities; tours, picnics, achievement days and camps. Dairy, calf, poultry, garden and corn projects for boys.

County School Supt. Tobin of Cook County and the Country Life Directors of the county are highly approving the work of 4H clubs. All the boys of Orland and Tinley are urged to attend the organization meetings on the dates above mentioned.

A. L. Hinrichsen
Dies In N. M.

Albert L. Hinrichsen, well known in the Tinley Park section, died on April 4th at his home in Artesa, New Mexico of cancer at the age of 58 years. He is survived by his widow, one sister, Mrs. Wm. Mancke of Tinley Park and three brothers, Will of Overton, Nebraska, George of Lincoln Park, Michigan and Frank of Joliet.

Mokena Gets New
Village Clerk

The only change made in the personnel of the Mokena village board by the election of Tuesday is in the office of village clerk, Karl E. Krapp the present incumbent being defeated for re-election by 17 votes by Paul Roenser, candidate on the Peoples ticket. The village trustees were re-elected. The returns were as follows:

VILLAGE PARTY
For village Clerk, Karl E. Krapp, 62 votes; for trustees Aug. Hentsch 110; Ona E. McGovney 110; Albert Braun 113.

Peoples ticket for village clerk, Paul Roenser 79.

STORY FROM THE START

Returning to America, during the War of 1812, after a successful voyage, Capt. Lion Fellowes' merchant ship Sachem is sunk off Portugal by a British frigate. His crew surrenders, but Fellowes roaches shore exhausted. His life is saved by an English-speaking girl who conceals her identity. He learns from her, however, that she is about to set out for Lisbon. Fellowes goes to Lisbon, hoping to find a vessel America bound. He meets Capt. Chater, of the American ship True Bounty, an acquaintance. Chater offers him a berth as mate. Fellowes refuses, knowing Chater is disloyal in trading with the enemy. He meets the girl who saved his life, Cara Ingelipin, daughter of the owner of the True Bounty. Cara induces him to sail as mate. Fellowes falls in love with her. The True Bounty is stopped by the British frigate, Badger, Capt. Collishawe. Despite his American citizenship Fellowes is taken aboard the Badger as a "pressed" man.

"Makes it worse for you. A native-born Englishman shipping with the enemy! 'Might be excusable if you were an ignorant feller, 'didn't know any better. Humph! Some captains would flog you on general principles.' A red mist swirled in front of Fellowes' eyes.

"If I'd had a weapon, you wouldn't have taken me," he snarled. "You trapped me, didn't you? That cur Chater put you up to it—he was afraid I understood his plotting."

"That will do. Another word, and you'll go in irons."

Something exploded in Fellowes' brain. It wasn't only Chater who had betrayed him. Cara—He choked.

"If you don't like words, try this," he gasped, and his fist shot up to Collishawe's jaw.

The Englishman pitched backward, long limbs asprawl, as Clinch and half a dozen more bluejackets closed in on Fellowes. Something like a grunt went up from the awestruck crew of the Badger. Collishawe lurched on to his feet. There was a puzzled look in the eyes of the Badger's captain, an expression almost of uncertainty.

"Easy with him," he directed Clinch. "Don't maul him. Here! Stand him up." And as Fellowes was dragged erect, cursing and fighting with all his strength: "Why on earth did you do that, man? 'Tis mutiny to strike your officer."

"You know why! 'Crimpin' Collishawe, that's what they call you! You didn't even press me like an honest Englishman. No, you cramped me like any lick-spittle, pot-house shipping-agent. To clear the road for yourself!"

Collishawe met Fellowes' glance squarely, and so they fronted one another for several breaths.

"I should have liked to ignore your offense," Collishawe said finally. "You seem to labor under a misapprehension—"

"Oh, no," mocked Fellowes. "I know what you're up to—trying to cover the tracks of a pair of traitors!"

Collishawe's hands clinched tightly. "You misapprehend me," he repeated. "I regret I cannot—But discipline must be maintained. Clinch, this man is to have fifty lashes—at once."

Fellowes went limp in his captors' grasp. A clammy sweat dewed his face, sweat brewed by a volcanic gust of hate that rocked him to the soul. His eyes glittered insanely. His voice came hoarsely:

"I'll kill you. Wherever you go, however long it takes to run you down, I'll kill you, Collishawe."

"Give him an hundred lashes. Clinch," Collishawe answered bleakly. He turned and strode aft, ignoring Fellowes' silent resumption of the struggle with Clinch's assistants.

"Easy all, lad," admonished the bosun. "If the cap'n doubles your ration again ye ain't likely to worrit much over your troubles. A 'undred lashes is fair nasty. But call yerself lucky, at that. Yer the first man I ever seed strike an officer, and live."

"The dog," croaked Fellowes. "I'll kill him—"

"Oh, no ye won't, me lad! Not arter a 'undred lashes. Now, then, what's the use o' fightin' us? We're only doin' o' our djoity. 'Ere, strip 'im, a couple of ye."

It occurred to Fellowes, as the rough hands of the sailors pawed his garments, that to continue resistance must only add further to his indignities. Whatever he did, his punishment would be administered. He must suffer. Very well, he'd suffer silently. Better so. He'd not squander in idle resistance the energy which should feed the fires of hatred burning now in his heart with a high, relentless flame. Hate! He'd hate so long as life pulsed in him. He'd hate unswervingly, consuming, with all the power of his spirit, each one of the group who had brought him to this pass—Collishawe, Chater, Cara Ingelipin and the father who had begotten her. He'd spend his life, his money, his strength, in revenging himself upon them, one and all. But most of all upon her!

Something welled up in his throat, and he felt a stinging in his eyes.

"Cryin' eh?" Clinch rumbled in his ear. "All right, lad. Let 'er drip. I've seen stouter men aweeplin' like babies under the cat."

Fellowes shook the tears from his eyelids.

"The Englishman doesn't live can make me cry," he answered grimly. "Get on with your duty, you called it? I shan't resist you."

"That's the proper spirit! 'Ere ye are, now—hands over yer 'ead—and a turn 'round the wrists. 'Uri ye? It hadn't oughter be tight—ye'll wiggle main 'ard when Kitty starts to kiss ye, lad."

The red mist, with the salty moisture, had cleared from Fellowes' eyes. He was conscious of weariness, mental and physical; yet his body had acquired a peculiar lightness. Around him on the deck were grouped scores of sailors, an Indian similarity in the ring of tanned faces and muscular bodies, all wearing the identical blue uniform. His watchers might have been hewed from a single pattern—except for two, who stood together a short distance forward of the mast. He observed this pair particularly because one of them was a negro, a giant of a man. The negro's companion was equally ugly, very short, monstrously broad, with comical, bowed legs and long, apelike arms.

Of all those on the Badger's deck this pair were the most brutal in appearance, ostensibly the most debased; but in some unexplainable way they imparted to him a message of sympathy. Their eyes signaled encouragement in his ordeal, and he felt mysteriously heartened. He saw, without trembling, Clinch striding aft, stripped to the waist like himself, in one gnarled fist a short stock of wood from which depended nine knotty chunks of brownish rope. He saw the officer of the deck, Mr. Curry, move nearer, aversion plain in his testy attitude. Then, out of the tail of his eye, he saw Clinch step back, with a loud: "Ready, lad! This is the count, sir—One!"

To save himself, he could not help flinching from the nine simultaneous bites of the cat. He strained in toward the mast, arching up on his toes, and as he raised himself to the limit of his height he saw outboard above the bulwarks the True Bounty bearing away on the opposite tack. One superb tower of canvas leaning to the pressure of the wind. Then he had sunk back upon the balls of his feet, and Clinch's crisp "Two" preceded the whistle of the lashes cutting into welts the first blow had raised, but this time he managed to keep from flinching. God, how he hated her!

"Three!" he lashes coiled lovingly around his flanks, criss-crossing the welts, drumming on his ribs, flicking the hair out by the roots. "Four!"

No Woman Without Some Appeal to Masculinity

Almost every woman has something about her which, carefully nurtured, will make her seem desirable—not, of course, to every man in her world, but to one or two. The charm, which may be anything from piquant conversation to good cooking, will find appreciation somewhere if it be well displayed.

Men are appealed to through their vanity and vainglory even more easily than women, which means that most men would rather be seen about with a woman who patently did credit to their own powers of fascination than with the worst creature in the world if she had no means of making the beholders envy them.

There may be men who dislike mere flirtation, and coldly ignore a woman who attracts them, but you will have to look for them in monasteries and other retired places. They are not of this world.

Fire burned all over his back and sides, and reached to his belly. His body quivered under the agony of it. But inside him burned a fiercer fire. He raised his head indomitably, and rasped over one shoulder at Clinch:

"Why don't you hit hard, man?" Clinch paused in the midst of a blow, almost abashed.

"'Ard?" he echoed. "Don't be asty, lad. 'Ere's five—and ninety-five to come."

"No talking," called Mr. Curry. Fellowes huddled closer to the mast, bracing himself to the shock of the lashes. Presently he tasted the salty moisture again on his lips, and licked them with his tongue. He mustn't cry. Mustn't give this d—n Britisher the satisfaction of it. But the mists to wash't tears. It was blood. At the next blow he saw it spurting over his shoulders. The red paint of the mast was flecked with it. He glanced down, and saw specks of blood on the clean, white deck.

He laughed. "Butcher Collishawe he'll call him after this," he said in a tired voice that was distinct in the oppressive silence.

"Thirty-five," counted Clinch, "thirty-six, thirty-seven, thirty-eight."

Fellowes was one broil of agony from his loins to his shoulders. He lay along the butt of the mast, hanging limp from his fettered wrists. For a while the strain on his arms had hurt him. Now, it was simply one part of the complicated torment that was his being. His hearing had gone with his sense of sight. He didn't know when it was that the count of "Fifty!" tolled, and Clinch's voice boomed at his ear:

"D'ye 'ear me, lad? Ye can take yer other fifty later. We'll 'ave the surgeon up for ye. Yer back's cut to pieces."

"Go on," croaked Fellowes, forcing open bloodshot eyes. "Kill me. If you can. That's what he wants."

Mr. Curry's voice was fretful. "If the man insists, you'll have to go ahead, Clinch. Here, fetch him a pan of grog, one of you."

A new voice pierced Fellowes' dwindling consciousness, a soft, plaintive voice, almost womanish in its husky, musical quality:

"Yah, mars'r! Cuffee got him rum."

Fellowes felt the rim of a pannikin at his swollen lips, and sucked thirstily. The raw stuff burned his swollen throat, and he coughed—and every muscle in his torso throbbled and stabbed. He throttled a groan.

"More," he pleaded.

"Ye'll git it, friend," promised another new voice. "This here's Tom Grogan, of Philadelph'y, P. A. I'm astandin' by, along of my nigger, Cuffee, here. Easy does it! That's 'nuff."

Gradually, Fellowes rallied under the stimulant. "Thanks," he managed to say.

Mr. Curry shouted testily: "If he won't have his punishment postponed you'll have to resume, Clinch."

"Aye, aye, sir," Clinch acknowledged reluctantly. "Ready, lad."

Fellowes tried to smile, but all that he could contrive was a crooked little grin.

"Ready," he assented. "And I want you to finish the hundred. Understand? Finish!"

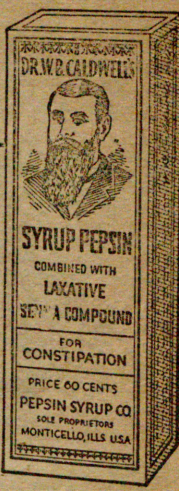

"Fifty-one!" counted the bosun.

Fellowes groaned as the dripping cat slashed into the pulp of his back, but he straightened by a mighty effort of will, and the following blows drew no sound from him. At the seventy-sixth he sagged limp, hanging from his tortured wrists. He revived with salt water sluicing over his head, smarting in the wounds that furrowed him. He felt as if he were dying under the reiteration of the lash, and before long a numbness assailed him. A rather pleasant numbness. He was aware distinctly of another deluge of water, of voices arguing, of a recurrent nervous shock. And at last oblivion relieved him.

Doctor's PRESCRIPTION when system is sluggish; costs nothing to try

When your bowels need help, the mildest thing that will do the work is always the sensible choice. Take a laxative that a family doctor has used for all sorts of cases of constipation. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is so pleasant to the taste, so gentle in its action, it is given children of tender age and yet it is just as thorough and effective as stronger preparations. Pure senna, and harmless laxative herbs; ingredients that soon start a gentle muscular action. Avoid a coated tongue, bad breath, bilious headaches, etc. Every drug store has Dr. Caldwell's famous prescription in big bottles. Or just write Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, Monticello, Ill., for a free trial bottle.

Jim's Thoughts Traveled

Beyond the Honeymoon

Governor Young was commenting on the California marriage law which compels ardent couples to stop, look and think before they take the final step.

"It is a good law," he said, "and although it was primarily aimed at the so-called 'gin marriage' it has a far wider scope than that. In these days of high cost of living, too many young people are of the Jim Harris type."

"Jim, you know, was very anxious to marry Claudia. Claudia was willing and her parents were not averse to the match."

"As a wedding present," Claudia confided to Jim, "Dad is going to pay all the expenses of our honeymoon trip."

"That's fine," said Jim and then added anxiously, "but what are we going to do after that?"—Los Angeles Times.

Hawaiian Forests

Hawaii is blessed with a considerable quantity of forest land, yet with the exception of one type of wood, koa or Hawaiian mahogany, the forest lands are of little value. The total acreage of woodlands is estimated at 1,000,000 acres, but it is largely in tropical forests with much mesquite. Ohia lehuana, another type of tree, has considerable value as a protection for watersheds.—Washington Star.

Restless Children

Children will fret, often for no apparent reason. But there's always one sure way to comfort a restless, fretful child. Castoria! Harmless as the recipe on the wrapper; mild and bland as it tastes. But its gentle action soothes a youngster more surely than some powerful medicine that is meant for the stronger systems of adults.

That's the beauty of this special children's remedy! It may be given the tiniest infant—as often as there is any need. In cases of colic, diarrhea, or similar disturbance, it is invaluable. But it has everyday uses all mothers should understand. A coated tongue calls for a few drops to ward off constipation; so does any suggestion of bad breath. Whenever children don't eat well, don't rest well, or have any little upset—this pure vegetable preparation is usually all that's needed to set everything to rights. Genuine Castoria has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper. Doctors prescribe it.

Says Men Want Pals, Not Patients!

SHE was engaged! She was the happiest girl in the world. A round of teas and parties, a whirl of pleasure, and she began to wonder what was the matter. Too tired to go out—and he—was he becoming tired of her?

It was at this point that Miss Margaret Belden of Los Angeles woke up to the fact that something had to be done about it. "Men want pals, not patients," she writes. "I went right to my doctor. Do you know what he said? Rest—and Nujol!"

"With a prayer in my heart and Nujol in my medicine" cabinet I began to fight back to being the healthy, robust, happy girl I had been before. Two months passed. No more tears—no more worrying, no more bad dreams. Today I beat him on the tennis court, and although he can out-swim me, I make him work doing it. It's good to be happy. It's good to be free, physically, and be able to share, any time, in sports or dancing or anything else with the one you love!"

Here's another one who has learned that the simplest and surest way to be well and full of good spirits is to clear the bodily poisons out of your system regularly. Not with powerful drugs, but normally, naturally, easily. Doctors and nurses recommend such a natural treatment as Nujol, because this crystal-clear liquid isn't a medicine at all! It contains absolutely no drugs. It is simply internal lubrication that your body needs like any other machine.

Good looks and good spirits—do they spell popularity? You know they do! Get a bottle of Nujol tonight in any drug store. Sold in sealed packages only—trademarked "Nujol." Insist on Nujol by name. It costs but a few cents—and it will make you feel like a million dollars.

MOKENA

In a recent issue of the "The Loom", a Camp Fire Guardian magazine, a very nice write-up was given the Mokena Morning Star Camp Fire Girls, and mention was made of receiving their charter.

Miss Louise Hecht has returned from Silver Cross hospital where she underwent an appendicitis operation. Dr. W. V. Hedges being the attending surgeon.

Wm. Beagley and sons of Orland, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Beagley and family, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon and son of Joliet and Mr. and Mrs. Dahl of Chicago spent Sunday at the I. D. Marti home.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Aspel and family of Joliet spent Saturday at the W. G. Lowe home.

Mrs. John Oestreich, mother of Mrs. Wm. Semmler, who has been quite ill at her home in Joliet, is improving.

Frederick, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Whitlark, celebrated his birthday last Wednesday afternoon by entertaining a company of his school mates. Games were played and refreshments were served. All had a delightful time.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Semmler attended the Central States Flower Show held in the Stadium in Chicago, Sunday.

Miss E. Krusemark, teacher in the local public school, is spending the Easter vacation with relatives in Chicago.

Evelyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Moore, fell off a bicycle Saturday, breaking her arm.

Geo. Walsh, while riding a motor cycle one day last week, lost his bill fold containing his railroad pass and $40 in bills. Mrs. Wm. Semmler found the wallet, but only $22 in bills was in it. George was lucky in recovering as much of the loss as he did.

MOKENA LUTHERAN CHURCH

Rev. Paul Schauer, Pastor. On Easter Sunday the Christian Church triumphantly tells the world that Christ is risen and that therefore He is God of very God and our perfect Savior from sin. On this day we want to hear the greatest message ever told and the greatest demonstration to the world that Christ is God.

Two services shall be held on this day. An English service at 9:30 A. M.; a German service at 10:30 A. M. A special sermon will be preached in which the pastor will show what the Joy of every Christian should be on this Great Day. Oh, what Joy this day should give all men to know Jesus arose from the dead and has conquered Death and the Grave, and has brought Life and Immortality to light! Yes, Jesus lives and we also unto Life shall rise, if we believe in Him. And with St. Paul we say: "O death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory? But thanks be to God which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ."

Come therefore and celebrate Easter with us. A joyous Easter service breathing the triumph of the Risen Savior; Scriptural preaching; a full liturgical, satisfying service and a friendly welcome you will find.

MOKENA M. E. CHURCH

Harold C. Sandall, pastor. Church School 10:30 a. m. Evening Worship 7:00 p. m.

An Easter service will be held at 7 o'clock Sunday morning at the Methodist church in Mokena. In previous years a large turn out has filled the church on Easter morning. We are expecting the same large crowd again this Easter. During the service there will be baptisms and reception of new members. No further services will be held during the day. There will be no church school or evening service. This will mean that the children who are working for a perfect attendance will want to attend this early morning service. Remember the hour seven o'clock Sunday morning.

Frank A. Tooley is preparing to build a new home on his lots north of Mokena.

Considerable excitement was created Wednesday afternoon when the report was received that the Frankfort State Bank had been robbed and John Lohring, the cashier was taken for a ride by the bandits.

Accident Tourney Opens

Odds Up on Sliver-proof Glass Chariots

Milk Fed Pedestrians Bring Good Prices

By E. W. Melson

DOUBLE BREASTED suits of cast iron, lined with chrome sole leather, will be worn by the well dressed motorist this spring. We have had our ear to the ground. Paris advices decreeing knickers will be entirely ignored, if not openly snickered at, by the 26,634,210 car owners who will take the road this spring prepared to avenge dents in the radiator, abrasions of the fender and contusions of the gas tank, suffered in last year's road tourney.

The jousting this year will be very gay and jovial. Cars will be matched by weights, and all collisions will be carefully refereed by cheering spectators, selected for their agility, who will report round by round to the Workmen's Compensation Bureau. No head on gouging will be permitted except by cars equipped with scatter-proof glass and caterpillar tires. Armored tanks are taboo, except by agreement between the contestants. Tanks are too safe for the drivers and last year's accidents from this source were so low as to be laughable.

The prizes to be awarded by the casualty companies this year are about the same as last:

Complete Dislocation Right Elbow	$50.00
Partial Fracture Floating Rib	25.00
Well Mashed Toes (Large or Small)	12.50
Shin Bruises from Cranking	8.95
Kicked by Horse	4.75

Bookmakers are quoting heavy odds on cars equipped with scatter-proof glass. In last year's jousting many contestants were hesive Tape & Plaster Association and the Auto Accessory and Garage Repairmen.

Pedestrians are looking forward with eager anticipation to the yearly festival. Their suits will be made of special alloy. Casualty companies have announced that they will pay $5,000 for the hands and feet of choice, milk fed, pedestrians, or $2,500 for either leg. There will be prizes for all and the winner on points will be given a steel engraving of Mussolini on his horse. Chambers of Commerce are urged to get behind this movement and have a Mardi-Gras in every community.

An Extension Telephone Would Help

DURING spring cleaning when the house is all upset and you're so busy you don't know which way to turn, certainly an extension telephone would be a big help. It would save your time and steps, run errands for you and make itself generally useful. You can have an extension in the kitchen where it will be close to the affairs of the household . . . or in the bedroom where it will protect you and enable you to answer late calls without disturbing your comfort . . . or in the living room where it is within easy reach during your leisure . . . or in all three locations, if you choose.

There is a particular plan of Telephone Convenience suitable for your home. The cost is small.

NOT TIRED— just waiting for HOT WATER

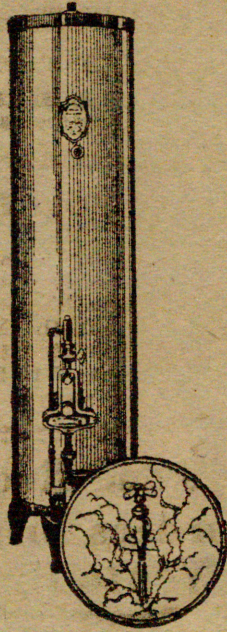

The old saying, "A watched pot never boils" is never truer than when you're in a hurry for hot water and have to depend on the teakettle for your supply. In many homes a dozen routine matters like doing dishes, cleaning, washing, shaving and bathing are each delayed ten or fifteen minutes a day because there isn't an adequate source of hot water. And the situation becomes worse during summer months when the furnace and the furnace coil are given their vacation.

ONLY
$5.00
DOWN

Modern homes are enjoying all the hot water they want (and finding it an inexpensive luxury) by installing a self-acting gas hot water heater. The "Pittsburg" heater pictured is only $69.75 cash (installation extra)—or $5 down and the balance the "Little by Little" way with nominal carrying charge. Historical Blue

Book Issued

A history of higher education in Illinois a hundred years ago and historical sketches of the three oldest colleges in the state are features of the 1929-1930 Illinois State Blue Book, copies of which are being distributed by Secretary of State Wm. J. Stratton. A number of other interesting articles on Illinois are included in the current issue of the book, which is more elaborately illustrated than any previous volume.

The history of pioneer education was written by Dr. Arthur Frederick Ewert of Illinois College at Jacksonville and he also writes a centennial sketch of that institution. Brief histories of McKendree College, Lebanon, and Shurtleff College, Alton, both of which also have passed the century mark, are contributed by Dr. Wm. C. Walton of McKendree and Dr. Geo. Milton Potter of Shurtleff.

Dr. Ewert tells of the development of the school system and the chartering of the early colleges.

Another interesting feature of the book is the article on Stephen A. Douglas's life in Scott County, where he passed the early years of his career and laid the foundation for his future greatness. This article was contributed by Mrs. Mary C. McAdams of Quincy, state representative from the 36th Senatorial District.

The remodeling and re-arranging of the Lincoln Tomb under plans prepared by the state architect is described in detail.

Other articles describe the progress in highway construction and the gasoline tax; bovine tuberculosis eradication in the state; the public health program as directed by the state health department; Illinois State Parks and Memorials; the housing work being done by the Department of Public Welfare for the improvement of the state institutions; the work of the Division of Forestry; the state library; the scientific surveys of water, natural history and geology and the National Guard and Naval Militia.

Voluminous statistics are provided on everything relative to the state government and also on many things not relating directly to the government.

There is a great deal of information on the counties of the state and extensive statistics are given on the schools, universities and colleges, births and deaths and state institutions.

The book comprises 1,100 pages and is elaborately indexed and cross-indexed.

This is the first Blue Book issued by Secretary of State Stratton and it is generally conceded to be the most elaborate and complete edition ever issued by this office.

Conoco Program Will Depict Early Yellowstone History

A re-enactment of the Washburn-Doane expedition in 1870, which made a discovery journey into what is now Yellowstone Park, the greatest scenic wonderland in the Western Hemisphere, is the subject matter for the weekly broadcast of the Conoco Adventurers Thursday night April 24, at 10 p. m. C. S. T. over the N.B.C. network.

Prior to the time of this expedition various tales had been told by Indians and a few scattered hunters and scouts who had penetrated a short distance into the Montana wonderland, but the American people were extremely doubtful of these tales of boiling springs, geysers, volcanic peaks, and fields carpeted with wild flowers. It remained for the Washburn-Doane expedition to bring back the first authentic data regarding Yellowstone, which was even more wonderful in fact than the Indian legends and trappers yarns.

A thrilling incident in connection with the expedition, the disappearance and subsequent rescue of Truman Everts, one of the members of the party after he had wandered for nearly a month thru the wilderness without weapons or supplies, is included in the Conoco dramatization. The playlet also gives an authentic historical story of the first conception of the plan to make Yellowstone a national park, and thus forever preserve its magnificence and grandeur for future generations.

The program may be heard over the N.B.C. network, Thursday at 10 p. m. over station WIBO.

THE BROADWAY STARS ARE WEARING GYPSY CAPS

Until the advent of the movies, Paris was the style center of the world. What the Parisian designers created for milady, the well-dressed woman was compelled to wear regardless of whether or not the creations were chic and becoming. Now, however, while Paris has a certain influence with a certain set of women, today, women get their fashions from Hollywood and the stage. What Hollywood takes up is usually adopted by the women of our country. This season will see a new idea in what the smartly dressed women will wear. The photo shows that the idea is a darling. They call it the "Gypsy Cap" . . . and it certainly has a gay exotic air that is flattering. Irene Delroy, who "goes" so nobly in "Follow Thru"—and won new laurels in "Top Speed"—is devoted to the Gypsy Cap. She wears it in all out-of-door activities to keep her hair smartly in place. And in-door, too, at rehearsals. Dorothy Stone, talented daughter of the famous Fred, now capturing all hearts in "Ripples", has dozens of Gypsy Caps in bright colors to match her many sports costumes. Edna Torrence, known as the American "Pavlova", considers the Gypsy Cap an essential part of her sports ensemble. This gaily colored two-piece cap, made of silken mesh, fastens about the head in gypsy fashion. Not only is it delightfully becoming, as you can see!—but it performs a worthy purpose in keeping smartly dressed coiffures—smart!

TRIPLE TESTED

POWER

CONOCO Gasoline is actually tested dozens of times in the process of refining—but it is called Triple Tested Gasoline because of all of these tests converged into three main tests—for starting—acceleration—power!

These are the things that motorists want—and are entitled to get—from the gasoline they use. A gasoline may be ever so powerful—but if it is not volatile enough to start the motor quickly and give rapid acceleration in traffic—it will not satisfy today's demands. An easy starting, swift acceleration, are mere snares if they are not backed up with power for every need—economical power!

CONOCO Gasoline meets all three of these important practical tests—that's the reason so many people insist on Triple Tested—

TOOK IT TO BUILD HER UP

Strengthened by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

La Junta, Colo.—"After my little daughter was born, one of my neighbors persuaded me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to build me up. The first bottle made quite a change in me. I got an appetite and can sleep much better. I am not so nervous as I was. I have six children and do all my own work. I can do so much more now than I could when I began taking the Vegetable Compound and I shall certainly recommend your medicine whenever I have an opportunity."—Mrs. JOHN OSBORN, R. #2, Box 216, La Junta, Colorado.

STATE CAPITOL NEWS

The house rivers and harbors committee has unanimously adopted a recommendation of army engineers for acquisition of the Illinois waterway as a part of the Chicago-to-the-gulf project. The committee's action was announced by Representative William E. Hull, of Illinois, who led the fight in the committee. Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, chief of army engineers, recommended to congress that the federal government take over and complete the Illinois waterway at a cost of $7,500,000 in order to complete a federally controlled link between the Great Lakes and Mississippi river inland waterway systems.

In a letter to Gov. Louis L. Emmerson, accompanying the tenth annual report of the Illinois Tax commission, Chairman William H. Malone called attention to the results of scientific research and analyses embodied in the report. The letter read in part: "In this report, the commission, in addition to the usual statistical information, has presented a carefully prepared digest of the state tax laws, a discussion of numerous problems of taxation and tax administration and the recommendations of the commission thereon." Mr. Malone recommended the creation of a statistical department in the tax commission, which should "be charged with the duty of preparing the reports of this commission and should undertake at once the comprehensive study of the tax problems of Illinois. When this is done, the commission will be in a position to render valuable assistance to the governor and the general assembly upon all tax legislation and upon matters affecting the fiscal policy of the state." Eighteen problems which might be investigated are enumerated in the commission's report.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Baxter, Chicago, were guests of honor at the formal opening of the new Baxter Hall Commons at Illinois college, Jacksonville. Mr. and Mrs. Baxter made the Commons possible by a gift of $80,000 for the erection of the building.

Measles is the most prevalent contagious disease in the state, according to a recent report issued by Dr. Andy Hall. Six hundred and ninety-one cases of measles were reported, while scarlet fever stood next with 519 cases, and pneumonia third, with 336.

Fees collected by the various departments of Secretary of State William J. Stratton's office in the first three months of this year exceeded those collected in the same period of 1929 by $1,805,779.54. The automobile department led all others. Its total for the three months was $15,361,214.54 as compared with $13,555,435 collected in the first three months of 1929. The collections of the other departments aggregated $374,714.24.

During 1930 the highway division will spend a total of approximately $2,000,000 for separating highway and railroad grades throughout the state. The railroads' share of the costs of these projects will be another $2,000,000. In the Chicago metropolitan area, the combined expenditures of the state and the railroads for grade separation projects will total about $2,500,000, while the work downstate will cost approximately $1,450,000. Director Harry H. Cleveland of the department of public work and buildings, and Chief Highway Engineer Frank T. Sheets have handed Gov. Louis L. Emmerson a detailed report of the grade separation program planned for the year.

George Thiem, director of information for the Illinois Agricultural association, in a recent bulletin calls attention to the experiments now being conducted by Thomas A. Edison to produce by cross breeding a species of golden rod that will carry 8 per cent of fine rubber, and to Mr. Edison's statement that he is now working on machinery to extract commercial rubber from the plant. In order to carry out the inventor's plans golden rod soon will be planted in large quantities on Henry Ford's plantation near Atlanta, Ga. Mr. Thiem offered this as an illustration of the growing possibility for the farmer to produce non-food crops.

More than 35,000 persons will be employed, directly or indirectly, in the state's road and institutional building projects during the present season, according to a report handed Gov. Louis L. Emmerson by Chief of Highway Engineer Frank T. Sheets and State Architect Charles Herrick Hammond. Governor Emmerson expressed gratification that the state is doing its share to relieve unemployment.

Mrs. Mary Bussey of Urbana, who shared with Mrs. Laura B. Evans of Taylorville, the honor of being the oldest members of the state university board of trustees in terms of service, died on April 7 in a Cincinnati hospital. She was serving her fifth consecutive six-year term, and was to have been chairman of the agriculture committee for the coming year. Mrs. Bussey was a charter member of numerous patriotic, civic and social organizations. She was one of the delegates who organized the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs.

The educational program for illiterates, instituted at the Joliet prison and Stateville by Rodney H. Brandon, director of public welfare, under Gov. Louis L. Emmerson, has produced highly satisfactory results. Men who were totally illiterate when enrolled a few months ago, now are able to write their own letters to friends and relatives. Prof. John T. Taylor, principal of the Illinois school for the deaf at Jacksonville, was appointed educational supervisor to establish the schools. Attendance was made compulsory by the establishment of the general policy that no more illiterate men and women would be paroled from the Illinois penitentiaries. The state also is conducting a school at the women's prison. It has an enrollment of 48 and is supervised by Mrs. John T. Taylor.

Five hundred new type stop signs, made of colored glass crystals, which reflect the rays of automobile headlights, are to be placed on the state highways by the state highway department within the next few weeks. Chief Highway Engineer Frank T. Sheets has announced. These signs were selected because tests have proved them to be much easier to distinguish at night than the standard placard now in use at the intersections of the state bond issue routes.

The office of the secretary of state, for the first quarter of 1930, has earned $7,375.37 interest on moneys collected.

Garden enthusiasts will be interested in the following list of new books on the subject of gardening which may be borrowed from the Illinois library extension division, Springfield: "Landscaping the Home Grounds," L. W. Ramsey; "Flowers for Every Occasion," Edna S. Tipton; "Book of the Tulip," Sir A. Daniel Hall; "From a New Garden," Mrs. Francis King.

Producers, distributors and users of bituminous coal were invited to attend the Midwest Bituminous Coal conference, which was held at Purdue university, Lafayette, Indiana, on April 9-11. This three-day educational conference was held under the direction of Purdue university, the Coal Trade association of Indiana and the Illinois Coal bureau with the University of Illinois and the fuel division of the A. S. M. E. co-operating.

On April 14 Frank Judd, formerly with the Chicago Journal of Commerce, assumed the duties of secretary of the newly created financial department of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce. The department's efforts will be bent toward advertising the tremendous financial wealth and position of the state and providing articles, bulletins, etc., on various financial matters. Harvey T. Hill is chairman of the new finance committee.

State highway maintenance police are authorized and directed as part of their duty to collect delinquent automobile license fees. Secretary of State William J. Stratton has been informed by Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom. He held, however, that investigators appointed by the secretary of state have no authority to collect license fees. A bond is required, Mr. Carlstrom points out, from highway maintenance police to protect the state against defalcation.

Citizens of Illinois were urged in a proclamation issued by Gov. Louis L. Emmerson to participate in the National Covered Wagon centennial, sponsored by the Oregon Trail Memorial association. The celebration started April 10, the one hundredth anniversary of the departure of the first wagon train from St. Louis to the Rockies, and is to be concluded on December 29. It has been endorsed by President Hoover.

The proposed Abraham Lincoln university to be built in Westchester county, New York, will be unique in the respect that students will be selected with character as the first essential. It was revealed following a dinner meeting of the Abraham Lincoln foundation. At the outset the student body will be made up of two students from each state and two from each foreign country. Dr. John Dewey of Columbia university will head the board of trustees, it was announced.

The Governor Emmerson cup—grand prize trophy to be awarded the commercial class that wins the state contest in shorthand, typing and book-keeping, to be held at Normal, May 16 and 17—is attracting an abundant number of entries in the preliminary trials, April 26 and May 10. This is apparent in the number of applications that W. C. Maxwell, commercial teacher of Champaign high school, and contest manager of the state association of commercial instructors, is receiving. Entries for the district and sectional tests, preliminary to the final tournament, closed April 15.

Permission to acquire the Alton & Eastern, the St. Louis & Alton, the O'Fallon Freight lines of East St. Louis and the Suburban railway is sought by the Illinois Terminal company in an application to the interstate commerce commission. Completion of improved freight and terminal facilities already under way in St. Louis and approval of the application to acquire the roads would make improved service by the Illinois Terminal company available, the application said. The carriers that would be acquired operate 77 miles of track.

Lesson for April 20

JESUS TEACHING FORGIVENESS

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 18:15-35, or Easter Lesson, John 20:1-16.
GOLDEN TEXT—Forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Teaching Forgiveness.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Teaching Forgiveness.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—WHY PRACTICE FORGIVENESS?
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—What Is True Forgiveness?

This lesson touches a most vital subject for our everyday lives. We are always surrounded by wicked men. Ill treatment we shall most surely receive, for all who will live godly in Christ Jesus shall suffer persecution (II Tim. 3:12).

In this lesson we have divine instructions as to our behavior in case of such ill treatment.

I. How to Gain an Erring Brother (vv. 15-20).

A sinning brother is lost. To bring him to a knowledge of his sin and restore him to fellowship in the church is to gain him. One soul is of greater value than the whole world. The method to be used is:

1. Personal (v. 15).

Go alone and tell him his fault. Personal effort is most vital in winning an erring brother. It is usually an effective method.

2. The help of a comrade (v. 16).

"Take with thee one or two more." The presence of one or two comrades helps in making known his fault.

3. Tell it to the church (v. 17).

Sometimes the church can accomplish that which the individual and the comrades fail to do.

4. The binding authority of the church's decision (vv. 18-20).

When the church follows the instruction of the Lord, gathers in the name of Jesus Christ, and is actuated by the Holy Spirit, its decisions are final.

II. Peter's Question (v. 21).

This question was probably occasioned by the ill treatment which Peter was then experiencing at the hands of his fellow disciples. Christ's confession of Peter brought him into the limelight. The question of the disciples, "Who is greatest in the kingdom?" shows that there was some jealousy of Peter among the disciples. This envy and jealousy was known to Peter. His patience being thus tested, he came to Jesus with a question regarding forgiveness. From the Lord's teaching as to the efforts to bring about reconciliation in case of offenses between brother and brother, he knew that the spirit of forgiveness would be required. Peter, disposed to be gracious, inquired, "till seven times?" showing his readiness to forgive his brother not three times, but twice three times, and a little over.

III. Jesus's Answer (v. 22).

This answer was an astonishing revelation to Peter. Jesus said, not until seven times, but until seventy times seven, showing that willingness to forgive should be practically limitless.

IV. The Two Creditors (vv. 23-35).

These two creditors illustrate Christ's principle of forgiveness.

1. The gracious creditor (vv. 23-27).

The king in this parable represents God. The servant who is greatly in debt represents the sinner, any sinner, every sinner—you and me. We were hopelessly in debt to God. Ten thousand talents are equal to some twelve millions of dollars. To meet this obligation would be an utter impossibility. This man's plea for time, promising to pay all, resembles man's vain imagining that he can pay his debt to God, that by his future good works he can atone for past sins.

2. The cruel creditor (vv. 28-35).

The man who was forgiven so much found a man who owed him a small sum—perhaps seventeen dollars. He shut his ears to this man's entreaty to have patience with him, flew at his throat, and cruelly put him into jail. The great mercy shown the one whose debt had been forgiven did not touch his heart, so he refused to be merciful. Being set free from so great a debt as our sins against God, we should not take up some slight consideration against our brothers, but should make God's act of unlimited forgiveness toward us a standard of unlimited forgiveness toward others.

(1) We, every one, continue to need every day the forgiveness of God. When we pray, "Forgive us our debt as we forgive our debtors," let us be sure that we have put away all thought of sin held against others. No mercy will be shown to those who have not shown mercy.

The New Life

The new life will have the reality of religion that comes through putting belief into action, actualizing goodness and brotherliness and all the noble virtues that enrich and beautify life and make it Christlike.—II. B. Grose.

On a Living Tree

Works have their place; fruit has its place, but it is found at the end of the branches, it grows on a living tree.—Branches.

Easter in Many Lands

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

HERE appeared recently in American newspapers an Associated Press dispatch from Moscow which read, in part, as follows:

"With the approach of Easter and Catholic and Protestant days of 'intercessory prayer on behalf of Christian Russians,' Soviet atheist officials are busy formulating an intensified assault upon God and religion.

"Ignoring the world-wide outcry against Communists for their attitude toward the church, which they say is only a cloak for an economic blockade against the Soviet Union, these leaders have issued instructions to members of the League of Communist Youths, numbering 2,500,000 members, to have 'special shock brigades and groups of light cavalry' during Easter week lead the anti-God movement and investigate the schools, universities and clubs to see how the anti-religious education of the young is being carried out.

"Members are directed to organize mock religious carnivals, atheistic meetings, torchlight processions and lectures and also to fight for extermination of the kulak, the complete collectivization of all farms in Russia and fulfillment of the 5-year industrialization plan.

"On Easter day huge bonfires of icons will be made in all large cities and towns around which unbelievers will celebrate the 'extinction of religion.'

"Dealing with its newly-prepared 5-year anti-God plan, the Society of Militant Atheists, embracing nearly three million members, has issued a manifesto asserting means must be found for exterminating religious teachings among families and eliminating from the schools teachers who believe in God so that in the end of the 5-year plan there will be no such thing as religion in Soviet schools.

"In its anti-Easter program, which it says will be carried out not only among Christians, Jews and Moslems, but among all other religious faiths in the Soviet Union, the Society of Militant Atheists says: 'By intensifying the struggle against religion, we will hasten the collectivization of peasant farms. By liquidating the kulak (rich peasant) as a class we will quicken the fall of his chief support, which is religion. We will convert the state and collective farms into great centers of atheism.'

Thus will Russia, under the Soviet government, not only turn from the celebration of Easter, which under the old regime was a deeply impressive religious ceremony, but it will challenge the faith of more than one-third of all the peoples of the earth to whom the observance of this day is an essential part of their religious belief. For out of a total of 1,847,500,000 people in the world today who accept some form of religion, 682,400,000 are Christians and, although their observance of Easter may vary in form in different countries, the essential spirit of their celebrations of the day is the same, whether it be in the Orient or the Occident.

One of the most interesting of all the Easter celebrations is that which takes place in Jerusalem, centering around the Church of the Holy Sepulcher where took place the event which gives Easter its deepest significance for Christians. Of this celebration Maj. Edward Keith-Roach, writing in the National Geographic Magazine, says:

"The supreme ceremony of the Eastern churches, the appearance of the Holy Fire, takes place at midday on Easter eve, according to the calendar of Eastern Christendom, in the Church of the Holy Sepulcher. Its origin is uncertain, but that it is derived from ritual and symbolism in usage by the very early church is undoubted. In essence the ceremony symbolizes the triumph of the Christian faith, renewed yearly in commemoration of the first victory after Calvary.

"The Orthodox patriarch, the primus inter pares among the princes of the Eastern churches, enters the edicule over the tomb in which, for this one occasion, all lamps are extinguished. From here he passes out holy fire and distributes it to the crowd thronging the church, which carries it far and wide. Before the World War the fire was borne to the farthest corners of Russia. The patriarch is assisted by a bishop of the Armenian patriarchate. Representatives of Coptic and Jacobite, or Syrian sects take part as well.

"The ceremony is, however, essentially a rite of the Orthodox church and representatives of others obtain permission from the Orthodox patriarch by proceeding to the Orthodox altar and doing obeisance. A Franciscan monk is present throughout the ceremony.

"First the Armenian patriarch passes in procession around the rotunda and retires; then the Moslem guardian of the Holy Sepulcher, in the presence of one Orthodox and one Armenian archimandrite, exercises his traditional privilege of sealing the doors of the Sepulcher.

"At noon the representatives of the other churches do obeisance, before the altar of the Catholicos, to the Orthodox patriarch, who awaits them vested in white and gold, with a crown of gold scintillating with enamel and precious stones upon his head.

"About this time groups of young men enter the rotunda through the Orthodox Catholicon, clapping their hands and singing.

"The actual service now commences with the procession of the patriarch from the Orthodox Catholicon, preceded by 13 banners borne by representatives of leading Orthodox families. They circle the rotunda, through the throng, three times; then all except the patriarch retire to the Orthodox cathedral. He, disrobed of miter and vestments before the doors of the Sepulcher, enters, accompanied by the Armenian bishop. The Copt and Syrian take position before the doors.

"Tense excitement prevails. All eyes are fixed upon the Tomb. Voices are lifted up. The crowd, holding candles aloft, presses forward, wave upon wave, self-restraint thrown away. The seconds seem long-drawn-out minutes.

"Suddenly an Orthodox priest, waiting without the shrine, with a mighty sweep, withdraws his arm from a hole in the edicule, holding a burning torch. The flame appears from the Armenian side also.

"The burst of flame is greeted with frantic cheering, the clapping of hands, the ringing of bells and high, piercing ululations from the women. The priest gives the fire to a selected representative of the community, and the crowd opens to allow him to rush with the sacred fire and light the lamps on the altar of the Catholicon.

"The Copt and Jacobite enter the door of the Sepulcher and receive the fire from the Orthodox patriarch, who then emerges, followed by the Armenian bishop, a flaming torch in each hand, the focus for a converging crush of worshippers, frantic to light candles from his torches.

"The Armenian, Coptic and Syrian processions now form and circle the rotunda. But the climax

1. The pilgrimage of French Catholics to the Colosseum in Rome for outdoor services during Easter week.

2. Children of the Near East Relief orphanage at Syra, Greece, planting the Easter cross above their school home. The custom of planting the cross at Easter has been observed in Greece for many centuries.

3. The living cross formed by nurses and enlisted men at the Easter sunrise services held at Walter Reed general hospital in Washington, D. C.

4. Throngs gathering for an Easter sunrise service on top of Mount Rubidoux at Riverside, Calif.

of interest has been reached. The visible symbol of resurrection, having been divided and passed on, no longer burns beside the Sepulcher. Slowly the crowds melt away, some climbing past the Garden of Gethsemane to the summit of Mount Olivet."

Almost as interesting as the Easter celebration in Jerusalem is that in another Old world city—Rome, Italy. There a cross is erected in the center of the Colosseum, where so many Christian martyrs suffered death because of their faith, and impressive services are held around this cross during Easter week, especially on Good Friday.

In the United States the idea of open air sunrise services on Easter morning have been gaining steadily during the recent years. It originated in California and the first service of this kind was held in 1900 on the summit of Mount Rubidoux, near Riverside, where stands a cross erected to the memory of Fra Junipero Serra, the pious Franciscan monk who first brought the cross to California and founded the missions in that state.

Jacob Riis, the famous writer, is said to have first conceived the idea of an Easter sunrise service on Mount Rubidoux during a visit to Riverside, and it is said to have sprung from a recollection of his childhood in Denmark when his people were accustomed to make a pilgrimage at Yuletide to the summit of a venerated mountain nearby, singing Christmas carols as they went.

On Easter morning 21 years ago a little group of less than a hundred people made their way up the slopes of the mountain from Riverside in the darkness before dawn so that the service could be held just at sunrise. The first service was a brief one, simple but sincere and impressive. But as Riis had predicted, the religious feeling brought about by an Easter sunrise service left an impression which guaranteed its continuance. Each year thereafter the interest and attendance at this service grew. In 1917 more than 20,000 persons ascended the summit of Rubidoux at Easter-tide and the next year saw the same number of pilgrims there. They had come not only from Riverside, but from other cities in California.

Other notable Easter morning services in California, each of which attracts thousands of worshippers, are those in the great Los Angeles coliseum, in the Hollywood bowl, at the Tower of Legends in Glendale and in Pasadena. At Stove Pipe Wells in the famous Death valley a cross has been erected and there services are held on Easter morning in memory of the pioneers who lost their lives on the desert.

Every year thousands of people attend an Easter sunrise service in the Garden of the Gods near Colorado Springs, Colo., and in the Wichita mountains of southwestern Oklahoma for the last four or five years a sunrise service has been held on the summit of one of the rugged granite hills. The chief feature of the service is the Pageant of the Resurrection, presented by fifty members of the Sunday school of Medicine Park.

Good Man's Great Fault Not an Uncommon One

"I understand," said the householder of another village to a friend, "that you used to know the parson who is coming to our church?"

"That's right," returned the other.

"Is he a good man?" asked the householder. "What I mean is, has he any faults or anything against him?"

"He's certainly a very good man," said the friend, "and, since you press me, I will tell you that he has one very grave fault."

"What is that?"

"He doesn't know how to sing," came the answer.

"But, my good fellow, that's not a very grave fault."

"Admitted," returned the friend; "but, you see, he sings just the same as if he did know."—London Answers.

One-Man Sawmill

Making it possible for the farmer to operate his own sawmill without employing other help, a one-man sawmill now is available to turn into profit much of the timber that formerly was used for firewood or wasted entirely. The mill is so arranged that all the levers to manipulate it are within easy reach of the operator and, aside from sawing out standard size lumber, will also cut shingles, lath and railroad ties. Stationary or portable mills may be obtained and both are operated by stationary engines, electric motors, water power, or by a belt from a truck. —Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Success Logic

Charles F. Riesner, successful movie director who fought his way from a poor boy's home to a mansion in Beverly Hills by his own efforts, declares that the man who says, "I will do it," owns 51 per cent of the stock in the project he is undertaking. But he cannot stop there and win success. He must organize his work and himself, be prepared to take an occasional loss and only using his voting power to keep himself at the task. —Arkansas Gazette.

Venerable Legionnaire

In Otis C. West the Rogers Park Chicago post of the American Legion claims the oldest legionnaire in the country. West will be eighty on May 28, his next birthday. He had retired from the army after thirty years of service, during which he never answered sick call or was in the guardhouse, and when he joined the army at the outbreak of the World war, at the age of sixty-seven, he had to have special permission from the War department.

Police Dog's Good Work

Because he has Nina, a police dog, Norman E. Hershey, a farmer, at Marietta, Pa., still has a cow named Bess. Early one morning he was aroused by a scratching at the door. Investigating, he found Nina, who had been locked up in the barn the night before. The dog coaxed Hershey toward the barn, where he rescued the cow before she strangled to death in the hayrack. When Bess became trapped, Nina clawed away the latch on the upper half of the barn door, bounded over the lower half, which had resisted her efforts, and was off on her rescue mission.

Sunday school 9:30 a. m.

The Sunday school will meet at the usual hour on Sunday 10 a. m. Morning worship at 11 a. m. This will be an Easter Service. In connection with this service the choir will render two Easter selections. The offerings at these services will be used for "World Service". Easter should remind us of "Others". Jesus motive in life was to help the needy.

Sunday evening at 7:30 seven young ladies of the Sunday school will give a pageant entitled "The Challenge of the Cross". In connection with this, several musical selections will be rendered. These services are open to the public, and it is hoped that they may be well attended. Everyone should put forth a special effort to go to church somewhere Sunday if he is not in the habit of going. This is one way of showing our appreciation to Jesus for what He has done for us.

Orland P. T. A. Installs Officers

The Orland Park P. T. A. met on Thursday evening, April 10th for the purpose of hearing the reports of the outgoing officers and the installation of the newly elected officers.

President H. Adele Cooper, opened the meeting with a reading of the State President's monthly message. This was followed by papers read by Mrs. Sherman Knox and Mrs. F. Glahn. Mrs. W. A. Hopkins of Oak Lawn, who was installing officer, at the inception of the Orland Park chapter of the P. T. A., was supposed to be present to perform a similar duty for the newly elected officers. However, circumstances developed at the last moment which prevented her being present and instead she sent a message of congratulation and timely advice which was read to the members by Judge Sherman Knox.

We had expected the orchestra from the Lemont high school to furnish the entertainment feature but again, connections were missed at the last moment. The Rev. Frank Coats of Lemont was present, and in a short address, congratulated the Orland P. T. A. for the progress it had made during its first two years of existence, and presented Miss Olive Newton, as a substitute for the promised orchestral entertainment. Miss Newton rendered several piano numbers with a skill of understanding, that brought forth much praise from the audience.

In the absence of Mrs. Hopkins, the duty of acting as installing officer fell upon the shoulders of the retiring president, Mrs. Cooper, who as usual, rose to the occasion and did the job up in a workmanlike manner.

The newly elected officers, installed to guide the destinies of the Orland Park P. T. A. for the coming year are: President, Mrs. Geo. Cox; Vice president, Mrs. H. Adele Cooper; Treasurer, Mrs. Fred Uthe; Secretary, Mrs. Earl Reish.

Following the installation of the new officers, a very pleasing ceremony took place. In consideration of the sacrifice and untiring efforts of Adele Cooper in guiding the destinies of the association during its first two years of existence, the organization had voted to present her with a Past President's Jewel. The presentation of this badge was made by Judge Knox, who in a short address, summed up what the organization owed to Mrs. Cooper for her efforts and in conclusion presented to her as a token of the esteem and appreciation in which the entire membership held her and as a visible token that she had labored long and well in the field of educational progress, the official Past Presidents Jewel, a suitably engraved gold emblem of Service.

The question of sending delegates to the coming convention of the Illinois Congress of the P. T. A. to be held in Evanston, was taken up and the following were selected: Mrs. Geo. Cox, Mrs. Earl Reish and Mrs. Fred Uthe, with alternates as: Mrs. Sherman Knox, Mrs. F. Glahn and Mrs. Harry Heiting.

The reports of the secretary and treasurer showed a very satisfactory record in membership, in accomplishment, and in cash balance and will be presented in full in a future edition of the News-Bulletin. In her resume of the past two year's work of the organization, Mrs. Cooper paid a compliment to Mrs. Lillian Knox, the retiring treasurer for faithful service as being the only other officer who had not missed a meeting since the inception of the organization.

The retiring president, Mrs. Cooper and the chairman of the publicity committee, Judge Sherman Knox, were laudatory in their commendation of the News-Bulletin and its editor, Wm. Semmler for the amount of space and publicity that had been given to the organization during the past two years and urged every member who wished to keep in touch with the association's activities, to become subscribers of that paper.

Following the meeting, refreshments were in order (as usual). This time it was a treat of home made candy which was donated by various members.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Meadow, Roy French, Leslie Peters, Art Vandervise and Oliver Kay.

Mrs. Fred Breitharth is returning home from the hospital. Mother and baby doing nicely.

Maebelle Andres came home from the hospital Saturday. She is doing fine.

Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Andres and son Harold went to Chicago Sunday to see Elmer Soldan and Ruth Mundinger confirmed at the Sangamon Street church.

Clarence Bettenhausen has moved his crane to a ditching job at Monee.

Mrs. O. Kaiser has returned from St. Francis hospital with her baby girl. All doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Andres entertained John Andres and family at dinner Sunday.

Quite a few friends came to call on Maebelle Andres Sunday. Glad to see her home. Among those out of town were Edward and Charles Roemer of Green Garden.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Uthe of Oak Park Avenue and Elmer Templin also of Tinley Park and Miss Gladys Warriner of Chicago motored Sunday to the Chicago Stadium to see the Central States Garden and Flow-er Show, also went to see Marilyn Miller in "Sally" and dined at one of the swell Chinese restaurants.

MOKENA

ST. JOHN EVAN. CHURCH

Rev. G. G. Bratzel, pastor Services for the Easter Time. There will be two services on Good Friday. At 10:30 A. M. in German and at 7:45 in English. Each service closing with the celebration of the Lord's Supper

EASTER SUNDAY SERVICE

The Easter season is the time for refreshing for the soul. It brings happiness and supreme joy when we learn that we can enter into a land of beginning again. Away from the gloom of a hopeless life; away from the depressing overload of burdensome sin. Out of the increasing shadow of a fearful death. All this made possible by the great Gift of God in sending the Redeemer who gave his life that we may live; Who arose from the grave to reveal the victory over death, a victory which we are all to share if we are faithful followers of the Savior, Jesus Christ. What happiness to know that death cannot hinder us from entering into eternal life of blessedness. We rejoice in happy service for the one who redeemed us. Come to the Lord's house with happy heart and serve the Lord with gladness and thanksgiving.

All the children and other members of the Sunday school will meet at 9:30 A. M., for the Easter lesson session. Easter Goodies will be given to all present. Everyone shall return the Lenten self denial offering envelope well filled.

10:30 English Easter service with holy communion. This will be a festival service for the entire community, and every one is invited to attend and share the blessings of this holy season. A special Easter offering will be received.

7:30 P. M. English evening service for every one including the children of the Sunday school. A service of song and praise with glad Easter messages from the pastor and members of the Sunday school. Songs and recitations will be given by the various classes. Attractive numbers by the Beginners department. Do not fail to come. Best Easter wishes to every one.

Wives and Rock

Gardens Bring Woe to Hubbies

As an aftermath of the recent flower show in Chicago, many of the Orland Park women are strong for fixing up things around the yard, (to the sorrow of friend husband). Clara Uthe, wife of our good friend alderman, Fred Uthe, decided that she wanted a "rock garden". A survey of the district was made and finally a suitable rock was located near the canal in Palos Park, wherewith friend husband, accompanied by his pal, Harry Heiting, Lawrence Uthe and George Cox with Earl Reish's trailer, set forth in quest of "the stone".

After two hours labor, said stone was dislodged and loaded onto the trailer. Then the fun began. The stone, weighing about 1500 pounds, became unruly which resulted in much damage to the trailer, by the tongue snapping off and other things not so pleasant happened.

In their dilemma Fred happened to think of his friend Judge Knox, whom he knew to be sojourning at his father's farm in the near vicinity. Accordingly, a distress call was made, and timber, wire, etc were produced and with the Judge's added 225 pounds of weight, the rock was finally gotten up on the road way.

All four of the before mentioned gentlemen are now waiting for the next announcement of a flower show or home exposition, so that they can tear down the posters or destroy the ads before their wives can see them. Can you blame them

New Faces on Orland Park Election Board

Some new faces were seen on the election board at the last village election. James McNully, Wm. Jacobson and James Creer acted as judges and Hilda Cox and Florence Knox as clerks.

The annual election for member of the school board for district 135 was held at Orland Park school house on Saturday evening, April 12. James E. Creer, president of the Board for the past year was a candidate for re-election and it is a feeling commentary both to Mr. Creer and the conduct of school affairs during the past two years, that no candidate was put forth against him. Mr. Creer has been an efficient member of the school board and with the experience gained during his last term, should be an invaluable man to the district.
